Bellows Falls, Saxtons River and Westminster: A History in Postcards paints a lively portrait of three of Vermont's most beloved communities along the Connecticut River. Postcards are a delightful medium that, through the years, have become historic ephemera. In this charming volume, historian and author Anne Collins has captured the spirit of Vermont through postcards all celebrating the heritage of Bellows Falls and its environs. Historic homes, fascinating people and the pastoral beauty of days gone by, all are here, along with an intriguing and informative history of the region.
