

Chinas Twelfth Five-Year Plan

Every 5 years, the National Peoples Congress of the Peoples Republic of China meets and approves a new national development program which serves as the roadmap for national economic and social development. Chinas most recent (12th) Five-Year Plan marks a turning point in prioritizing domestic development in tandem with quality growth and sustainability. In the 12th Five-year guidelines, China set targets for GDP growth, energy use, resource allocation and policies aimed to increase social benefits and reduce wealth disparities. Chinas Five-year Plans serve as benchmarks for national development over different historical periods. As a component of a centralized economy the five year plans establish the principles of the CPC and outline strategic policies and targets for economic and social development. From development, formulation to implementation, the five-year plans draw on collective wisdom and involve an extended process of evaluation and analysis of the economic and social complexities of a fast growing country. This book presents many of the official, unedited texts and speeches by Chinas senior leaders and should be considered as primary source material for anyone seeking additional information on Chinas key policies and areas of development focus over the course of the next five years.
