This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1907 Excerpt: ...The author, an old University of Michigan graduate, has devoted many years to the study of violin building, and has grappled with many of the problems of the art. He has cast his results in the form of lectures to an imaginary class, and has expressed his views with great clearness, and with absolute conviction of their accuracy. It is refreshing to find a man who has had the patience and perseverance to conduct such a series of careful experiments as underlie the conclusions of the author. To analyze thoroughly these conclusions--involving methods for curing all the ills to which the violin is subject--is a task for an expert in violin construction. Dr. Castles enthusiasm and his love for this noble instrument are in evidence on every page, and lovers of the violin are indebted to the author for a most readable contribution to violin literature.
