

The history of the progress and termination of the Roman republic.

This history of the Romans, collected from the remains of ancient authors, has been often written in the different languages of Europe. But a relation worthy of the subject, simple and unambitious of ornament, containing in the parts a useful detail, and in the whole a just representation, of the military conduct and political experience of that people, appeared to me to be still wanting. Having earnestly endeavoured to supply this defect, at least in what relates to the later times of the Republic the intention, I hope, joined to the importance of the matter, will justify my humble desire to inscribe this performance to your Majesty. I am, with the most profound respect, Sir, Your Majesty's most faithful subject, and most obedient humble servant, ADAM FERGUSON. Edinburgh, February 1, 1783.
